New License

A new license entitles the purchaser to:

- A license certificate that enables the correct functionality set for the license type.
- A 12 month 'subscription' that entitles the user to:
  - priority email support and
  - acquire free updates of the Labnaf software for the purchased license type.

Renewal

- Once you have purchased Labnaf software, you can reinstate it, before your subscription lapses, just by paying the renewal fee for the license type you hold.
- A renewal extends a purchaser's 'subscription' for an additional 12 months, thereby providing access to priority email support and free updates. A renewal entitles the purchaser to receive the latest version of the Labnaf software. The renewal will cover the number and type of licenses originally purchased. Any additional licenses must be purchased at the standard list price for the required license type.

Labnaf software license certificates will not expire. Only the subscription will do. If you choose not to renew, you can continue to use the Labnaf software that you purchased, you just won't be able to update it unless you renew. Subscriptions that have lapsed for 3 or more years will not be eligible for subscription renewals and the user will need to purchase new licenses if they wish to use the latest version of the Labnaf software.

These prices do not include:

- VAT
- Sparx EA licenses (Labnaf needs Sparx EA's modeling infrastructure components)

(*) Discounts cannot be combined with each other.

(**) As the name suggests, Floating Licenses 'float' from user to user as they start and stop the various software products. A license for the product is only required while a user has the software running, once the product is shut down the license is available for another user to make use of. Labnaf floating license work hand in hand and are sold only with Sparx Systems' Enterprise Architect floating licenses.

(***) On-line educational material is accessible for free only for the single purpose of self-education. Any commercial usage of this material is subject to specific license fees.
